CHALLENGED CHALLENGE

There are a lot of famous Christians who were or are “disabled”, but they overcame their “inabilities” to prove that they were just as capable at meeting life’s challenges as any other person. They are incredible people.

Draw a line from arrow to arrow to connect the person to their “challenge”. Avoid having the lines cross. Show you Ranger your connections.

Diagram illustrating the connection between famous Christians and their challenges. The challenges are listed in the center, and the names of the individuals are listed around them. Arrows indicate the connections to be drawn.

Famous Christians

Nick Vujicic is a Christian evangelist and motivational speaker. He was born with Phocomelia, a rare condition characterized by absent or withered limbs. This resulted in many difficulties, including bullying.

Joni Eareckson Tada is a Christian advocate for people with disabilities. She is an artist, writer and singer. As a teen through a diving accident, she became a paraplegic; paralyzed from the shoulders down.

Orville and Wilbur Wright designed and flew the first controlled, heavier than air, powered aircraft. They went on to describe the principles of controlled flight. They had learning disabilities and neither completed high school.

Orville

Wilbur

Helen Keller was a public speaker, writer and political activist. She was born blind and deaf, and could not hear her own voice or see words or signs.

Louis Braille was an educator and invented a system of reading and writing for the blind. As a boy, he poked himself in one eye with an awl and a severe infection destroyed the other, leaving him completely blind.

George Washington was a victorious general and the founding president of the United States. After his father's death, he was unable to attend high school. He had life-long learning disabilities.

Sir Isaac Newton formulated the laws of motion and gravity. He was forced to temporarily leave high school, and was bullied upon returning. This led him to become a super-achiever.

WHAT'S LIFE LIKE FOR A KID WITH SPECIAL NEEDS?

Life is extra challenging for a special needs kid. It is often harder for them to do the normal stuff, like hearing or seeing or speaking or holding things or moving around or learning or simply understanding. It's not their fault, and if they are born with the handicap or have had it for a long time, they see it as normal for themselves. But life can be hard, so parents, doctors, nurses, therapists, teachers, and others help them through it. The goal is to help the special needs kid to be as independent as possible.

You can be a big help by being a friend. Kids who use wheelchairs, or who have other special problems, want friends just as you do. But for them making friends can be tough. They know that they are "different". Some kids tease them and make fun of them. Be sure to tell an adult if you see someone being teased or bullied. You can be their champion by doing this one small thing.

And you can do more. If you know someone with special needs, you can ask to carry that person's books, or do something as easy as asking him or her to join you and your friends at lunch. It's important not to be "overly helpful", because just like you, kids with special needs want to be as independent as they can be.

Building a real friendship with a special needs kid is one of the best things you can do to help. Pray for them. Ask God to show you how you can help. Ask God to help them. Ask for Him to give them strength to bear the burden that He has given them. And, ask Him for a miracle of healing – they do happen; and in ways you wouldn't expect.

As you get to know your special needs friend, he or she can help you understand what it would be like to live life in their shoes. Everyone has a special need. Some are more noticeable than others, but you have one... You need good friends in your life who accept you just as you are.

The goal is to help the special needs kid to be as independent as possible.
